Dear Supporter,

The CME program is a unique medical conference designed to evaluate the clinical science aspects of diabetes, obesity, and CVD, focusing on the heart and kidney in diabetes. The goal is to develop appropriate comprehensive clinical management plans aligning endocrinologists, cardiologists, nephrologists and all other interested clinicians in their understanding of the impact of diabetes and CVD outcome trials on the clinical management of these very high-risk patients. The meeting brings world-renowned clinical leaders in diabetes and cardiovascular disease and practicing clinicians together to improve the care of patients at a high risk of cardiovascular, metabolic, and kidney diseases.

This educational initiative is designed for endocrinologists, cardiologists, diabetologists, nephrologists, internists, family physicians, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, and other healthcare professional interested in the prevention and treatment of diabetes, obesity, cardiovascular disease, and associated conditions, as well as the effect of these conditions on health and society.
